COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

TUESDAY EVENING, Nov 21.

THE London telegrams still quote Consols at 102, French Rente's at 114, but the 3½ per cent. Indian Sterling Loan is quoted ½ higher at 100¾, as also 4½ per cent. Rupee Paper at 87½.

In the General Produce markets there is no change, but Linseed is reported weaker in tone.

Cotton in Liverpool yesterday closed firm, the day's sales being estimated at 14,000 bales, of which 3,000 were Surats. Spot prices, show an advance of 1-16d. in Mid-Uplands, and Americans to arrive are 7-64d. up. In New York ready cotton is again 1-32d. higher at 10⅞ cents, but Futures are 13 points lower. The receipts at the U.S. ports to date are as follows :—

	1882.	1881.	1880.
Two days' receipts	47,000	60,000	41,000
Three days' do.	90,000	90,000	89,000
Total since 1st Sept.	2,017,000	1,912,000	2,172,000

This season's figures, it will be observed, are rapidly approaching the level of the year before last, and once they begin to get in excess we may look for large crop estimates coming into favour.

EXCHANGE on London opened firm this morning, and after receipt of Calcutta advices exhibited a further hardening tendency. Business was done in the morning at 1s. 8d. for 3 months credits, but later in the day 1-32d. higher was quoted, and in fact 1-32d. advance may practically be quoted all round. Rumour has it that a large amount of Council drafts has been taken up privately at 1s. 7⅞d., and if so there is every prospect that to-morrow's Council drawings will bring a similar figure ; at the same time we are still inclined to think that we have yet got to see a decline before a permanent advance. Closing quotations are :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 7 13-16d.	per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 7¾d.	,,
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 7 29-32d.	,,
Credits, 3 ,, ,,	1s. 8 1-32d.	,,
Francs, 3 ,, ,,	2·11	,,

On Calcutta we still quote demand at ½ per cent. premium, but 60 days' sight has receded to ⅜ per cent. discount.

GOVERNMENT PAPER has been quiet but steady at unaltered figures, say Fours, Rs. 99½ and Fours-and-a-half, Rs. 106¾. In Calcutta the former [illegible] we have yet to learn the source of the apparent strength.

SHARES :—The tendency of the market is still towards weakness. Banks are unaltered. Press Companies are steady, Spinning ann Weaving Companies are weak at a decline of Rs. 10 to Rs. 15 all round.

COTTON has been the turn weaker to-day, inasmuch as there have been sellers but few buyers at yesterday's prices. Transactions have not been large, but about 1,000 bales have changed hands all round, and at the close there are still sellers.

SEEDS and WHEAT are unaltered.

FREIGHTS are quiet at unaltered rates, and only very limited engagements have been made.

PIECE-GOODS are in fair request at previous values.

COALS are firm for early delivery, but quiet for distant shipment.

DEFECTIVE OR FAILING SIGHT.

THE sense of sight is so valuable that the importance of perfect and carefully adjusted spectacles can scarcely be overrated ; although the wearing of single eye-glasses should be strictly avoided, we have the highest medical authority, confirmed by daily experience, that imperfect glasses, together with the haphazard plan of selection generally employed, are frequent causes of irremediable injury to the sight ; and as no present economy can compensate for such a loss, it behoves all to be cautious how they are tempted to use the common pebble or glass spectacles now so generally sold.

For the guidance of those who are using pebble spectacles, it may be stated that when the pebbles are cut against the grain, and not polished on the principle which has been universally declared the most appropriate, based on scientific research, they are injurious to the sight.

Practically as the unnecessary wearing of spectacles undoubtedly is, the common notion that their use should be postponed to the utmost is proved beyond dispute to be a grave mistake.

Being in possession of all the optical instruments taken over by us from Dr. A. Menist, we are not only in a position to suit the eye sight to perfection, but to supply different accommodations for each eye which so frequently are needed.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1882.

It is always annoying for a Minister to be defeated on presenting himself for re-election after appointment. If the Shakespearian dictum be true that "the poor bettle, that we tread upon, In corporal sufferance finds a pang as great As when a giant dies," then, we suppose, the annoyance of electoral defeat will be equally severe whether the victim be a Home Secretary or a Groom-in-waiting. The first of Mr. Gladstone's Ministers to encounter a check of this description was Sir William Harcourt, and the last, we learn from Reuter, is Mr. W. H. Grenfell. In the "good old days," before party warfare was so relentless as it is now, it was always "an understood thing" that a Minister should never be opposed on coming before his constituents for re-election. It was admitted by both parties that this old law (it was passed in the reign of Queen Anne, and she is dead) was an anachronism, and by a tacit understanding it was practically shelved. Of late years, however, the enactment has been resuscitated, little to the advantage of the Opposition, and often much to the inconvenience of whichever party is in power. When offices were avowedly bestowed for corrupt purposes, it was, no doubt, a sensible provision that when a member accepted office under the Crown he should come before his constituents for re-election ; but when the corrupt age passed away the law ceased to serve any useful purpose. Although, probably, the Conservatives have more frequently exercised the power of opposing Ministers, neither party is quite free from blame in the matter. During the last administration, it may be remembered, the present Baron Huddlestone was unable to accept a law-officership on account of his inability to undergo the ordeal of re-election at Norwich ; and when Sir Hardinge Giffard was appointed Solicitor-General, the Liberals amused themselves, and annoyed Lord Beaconsfield, by thwarting him in several attempts to obtain a seat. It is very doubtful whether tactics of this character have ever produced results sufficient to justify the departure from the old understanding. The defeat of Sir William Harcourt at Oxford did not affect Mr. Gladstone's Government in any way, though it bore unpleasant consequences for the Conservatives. Neither did the opposition to Sir Hardinge Giffard produce any substantial benefit to his opponents. On the other hand, when the opposition is unsuccessful the defeated party have to encounter not merely the usual consequences of defeat, but the opprobrium of having engaged in a shabby action. Thus the attempts of the Home Rulers to prevent the re-election of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Porter, on taking office, damaged their own party, and secured considerable sympathy for the Government. The tendency to sympathise with the persecuted Minister is even more pronounced in England than in Ireland, where a Government is entitled to popular hostility simply because it is a Government. Sir Henry James, for example, owed no small amount of the consideration he obtained among Liberals, in their Opposition days, to the heroic fight he made against the Conservatives of Taunton, who tried to oust him when he was appointed Solicitor-General in 1873. Opposition to a Minister, therefore, under such circumstances, is a proceeding from which little political advantage is to be gained, and a good deal may sometimes be lost. It will, no doubt, be a grievous disappointment to Mr. Grenfell to be extinguished at the outset of his official career. He cannot hope that the Government will make any special effort to obtain a seat for him, because a Groom-in-waiting is not an official of sufficient importance to require the party machinery to be specially set in motion for his benefit. But in being defeated in this provoking manner Mr. Grenfell has established a claim on his party, which will be honoured in due course.

Of the political importance of the Salisbury election it is not easy to speak. At first sight, it might seem the response of the electorate to the Closure Resolutions—a response rendered all the more significant by the advantage the Ministerial candidate would derive from the success of the Egyptian campaign. But it is only on great occasions that elections in small boroughs are decided on broad political principles. Local preferences are generally the ruling influences, as well as a general desire for change. The Liberals carried both seats in 1880. Previously the representation was usually divided, each party [illegible] By the present elec-

[illegible] bridge University. All three are safe Conservative seats. Cambridge, we see, is to be contested by Professor Stu[art] presumably in the Liberal interest. Professor Stuart is a man of very liberal views in educational matters, and he has distinguished himself in recent years by promoting the scheme for the extension of University education by means of lectures delivered throughout the country. His candidature is probably more educational than political, and is, in fact, a revival of the movement to have an "academic member," which was overthrown at Oxford. We do not anticipate better fortune for the "academicals" at Cambridge. University electors are mostly country clergymen or practising lawyers—men more likely to be moved by political than academic considerations, and even on political questions their views are generally of a narrow and illiberal type. The enfranchisement of Universities is one of these things which cannot be explained. The voters are men who generally (almost invariably) possess votes in their respective counties or boroughs, and the Universities at elections have rarely exemplified that culture and intelligence which were expected of them. Oxford rejected Mr. Gladstone when he became famous, and now contents herself with a brace of mediocrities. What with one thing and another, it is more than probable that academical constituencies will soon share the fate of those once notorious "fancy franchises" of which they are the last remnants.

WE observe that an order is about to appear which cannot fail to create some sensation in [illegible] To the outside world the post of commandant of a regiment, while it is both honourable and useful, yet does not seem of such an exceptionally important nature as to make its holder unduly vain. And yet experience shows that elevation to a command has completely altered the character of numberless officers ; or if it has'nt altered their character, it has brought to light many hitherto unsuspected traits of vanity and arrogance. The subject has its humorous as well as its serious side, and it is frequently amusing to see the change that comes over the second-in-command when he in his turn becomes commandant. Let us take the case of Colonel Smith, the popular second-in-command of the 99th N.I. As second-in-command Colonel Smith is of course in opposition to Colonel Jones, who commands the corps. For in these days when officers are thrown together in a regiment without much previous knowledge of each other, and with widely different views on military matters, which they have imbibed in the corps they belonged to when young, it naturally follows that the commandant finds himself in the position of constitutional governor, while the second-in-command leads an active and resolute opposition. The 99th is no exception to this rule, and Colonel Jones has only to broach some new idea in regard to parades or orderly room for Colonel Smith to oppose it to the utmost of his power. For instance, when Colonel Jones, as commanding officer, announced that the regiment was getting slack, and that afternoon parades would be held in consequence, Colonel Smith was up in arms at once, and said that in his old regiment (known to be the smartest in the service, and of which, he, Smith, was for many years adjutant) such a thing as an afternoon parade was quite unknown ; that it is the greatest mistake to over-drill men, as it makes them stale, and so on. At mess the worthy second-in-command is great on this and kindred topics. Wait till he gets the regiment, is the constant burden of his conversation. Things will be very different then. No more of this endless and useless parading. No more refusing an officer's leave on the plea of having already too few officers in the regiment for duty. All this sort of thing will be altered when he (Smith) gets the regiment, and everybody will be made comfortable and happy. The younger officers of the regiment listen to all this with much attention and approval. Although they had not previously thought much about it, they now reflect that they are worked off their legs under the rule of Colonel Jones, and they long for the time when genial Colonel Smith shall be no longer second-in-command, but shall become commandant. They have not long to wait. Colonel Jones is tempted by one of those spasmodic attempts which Government is always making to get rid of senior officers, and avails himself of an offer of extra pension, and says good-bye to the old regiment, to which Colonel Smith is duly gazetted. But he has not been in command a month, before it becomes painfully evident that a marked change has come over the genial Smith. He has great ideas of what is due to himself as commanding officer, and treats any opposition to himself and his views as rank insubordination, which requires the notice and admonition of superior authority. He tells every one that the regiment has been allowed to go to the dogs under poor old Jones,—a kind man enough, but quite unequal to the command of a naik and three,—and accordingly he begins a severe course of parades, by the side of which the old easy life under Colonel Jones appears like one long holiday. And the new commanding officer speedily lets it be known that young officers should know their places and behave with becoming respect to their superior officers. And the first time his second-in-command ventures a rather indignant remonstrance against some high-handed proceeding, he claps that astonished officer under arrest, and talks very loudly for a day or two about a court-martial. His officers are, of course, very much disgusted, and speculate much among themselves as to the cause of the wonderful change in the once jovial Smith, the great delight of whose life it was to oppose his commanding officer as much as possible. They cannot understand how a man can be so altered, and can so completely belie his former self. But in truth the reason is not far to seek. An officer who cannot obey cannot command, and the man who carps most at authority when he is in a subordinate position is the most intolerant of all opposition when he comes into a little brief authority.

But the race of commanding officers is an extensive and diversified one, and by no means confined to any one type. There is the fussy commanding officer, who will not take any responsibility on himself, and who refers every question as it arises to the brigade-major, until that hard-worked officer is almost driven beside himself with the variety of questions on which the fussy commanding officer stands in urgent need of "information and guidance." HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONOURABLE SIR JAMES FERGUSSON, Baronet, K.C.M.G., C.I.E., a Government notification issued yesterday afternoon states, will arrive in Bombay on Friday, the 24th instant, at 7-15 a. m. His Excellency will alight at the Boree-bunder railway station, where a guard of honour will be in attendance, and the usual salute will be fired from the saluting battery. Heads of Departments are requested to be present at the railway station.

THE I. G. S. May-Frere left this morning for Bankote for the Hon'ble Mr. L. Ashburner, who is returning from Mahableshwar, and will be in Bombay on Sunday next.

SOME additions to the list of Egyptian war honours telegraphed by Reuter are given in a special telegram the Pioneer has received from its London correspondent. Colonel Rogers, C. B., commanding 20th Punjab Infantry, has been made an extra Aide-de-Camp to the Queen. Sirdar Bahadur Tahour Khan, Ressaldar-Major of the 6th Bengal Cavalry, and Sirdar Bahadur Mowladad, Subadar-Major of the 20th Punjab Infantry, are made Companions of the Order of the Indian Empire. The decoration of many European and native officers with the Orders of the Medjidie and the Osmanlie is announced. The local rank held during the campaign has been ruled to be merely temporary. The Pioneer's special telegram confirms our supposition that the "Colonel Wolseley" mentioned in Reuter's message as one of the recipients of the C. B. was Colonel Worsley, Commandant 7th Bengal N. I.

It appears there is not so much difficulty as was apprehended in finding independent men willing to undertake the duties of Chairman of the Local Fund Boards under the new local self-government scheme. The Indu Prakash of yesterday remarks:—It is satisfactory to learn that, under instructions from the Government of Bombay, the District Collectors in this Presidency have been looking out for non-official gentlemen to act as Chairman of the Municipal and Local Fund Committees. We hear that a good many native gentlemen of position and education in each of these districts have consented to undertake the duties of Chairman, if appointed.

THE reports of the Revenue and Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops are issued this week without the usual official summary contained in the paragraph of "General Remarks." The omission is probably explained by the fact that the Departments have been lately in a transition stage between Simla and Calcutta. The detailed reports show that in Madras general prospects are good, but more rain would be beneficial in several districts, particularly in Kurnool, Ganjam, and Chingleput. In the last-named district, except where there is irrigation, the crops are reported to be "withering from want of rain." The reports for the Bombay Presidency we have already seen, they having been published here last week. In Bengal the crops in different districts have suffered from opposite causes. The prospects of late rice are "not very satisfactory in several places owing to the want of early rains, but on the whole the crop is expected to be a fair one;" while in the Chittagong Hill tracts the cotton crop has "suffered materially from heavy rain." For the Presidency generally, however, the prospects appear to be very encouraging. In the North-West Provinces there had been very little rain, which was badly wanted in Lucknow and Kumaon. In the Lucknow district the kharif crops appear to have suffered from want of moisture, but in the other districts prospects are excellent. In the Punjab, Central Provinces, British Burmah, Assam, Mysore, and Coorg, and in fact throughout the country generally, there is every prospect of favourable harvests.

THE papers with reference to the scheme for constructing a railway between Raipur in the Central Provinces and Vizagapatam on the Madras Coast, to which we directed attention the other day, are published in the Gazette of India. The Government of Madras, in a letter to the Government of India on the subject, strongly recommend the construction of the line, both as an outlet for the produce of the country, which at present can be carried wholly on pack-bullocks, as there is no made road, and more especially as a protection against famine. Both the late and the present Maharajahs of Vizianagran and all the neighbouring zemindars have expressed the greatest desire for the early construction of such a line, regarding the project as an invaluable protective work for the inhabitants of the coast districts against the recurrence of famine, similar to that to which the inhabitants of Vizagapatam were exposed in 1865-66. The proposed trunk line would proceed from Vizagapatam to Vizianagram, Parvatipur, Raigudda, and Ombadola to Assurgor, and thence either bifurcate to Raipur or Sambalpur, or, if a single line be preferred, hold a directly northern course, so as to join the main east and west line at the most convenient point. The Government of India have not yet pronounced their decision upon the proposal submitted to them, but at present merely publish the papers for information.

IT is not only the Salvationists who can afford to publish cheap newspapers. We have received the first number of a little journal called the Surat Akhbar, printed in Guzerati and English, which is to be published weekly at the very low charge of one pice per copy, or 12 annas per year. The enterprising proprietor (who is also, probably, editor, reporter, compositor, and reader) must sell 300 copies per week to realise the modest gross income of Rs. 25 per month; and then cost of paper and ink, rent of office, interest on printing plant, &c., &c., remain to be deducted. And at this rate the public are offered "editorials, local, and other intelligence." The subscribers could not expect much more for the money.

As to the position of Sir Herbert Macpherson and the Indian Contingent in Egypt, the London correspondent of the Allahabad paper says:—It will be noticed that the name of General Macpherson stands at the bottom of the list of officers to whom the thanks of Parliament were especially given. This has arisen, not from any want of appreciation of the services of that gallant commander, or of those of the splendid corps entrusted to his leadership, but from the simple fact that he was the junior officer holding a command. In connection with this matter I may allude to complaints that have appeared in some of the Indian papers respecting the arrangement under which General Macpherson and his contingent were attached to the second division under the command of Lieutenant General Hamley. Possibly there has been some misapprehension as to the circumstances under which this command was given to General Macpherson. The Indian forces were established as a Contingent in order that General Macpherson might have an independent command, without his being, at the same time, commander of a division, for which his rank did not qualify him when compared with other general officers. Long before the Indian troops were sent from Bombay it was thoroughly understood that the force was not intended to be retained as an independent force, acting as a single body; but that it might be broken up into separate units according to the requirements of the General Commanding-in-Chief.

THE useful part played by the Indian troops in the Egyptian campaign has suggested to certain politicians in France the idea of recruiting more largely from the Arab populations in North Africa. Writing in the Journal des Débats, M. Gabriel Charmes warmly advocates this plan, declaring that nearly one hundred thousand men may easily be raised in Algeria and Tunis, and quartered in Provence, the climate of which closely resembles their own. In time of war these troops would prove of the utmost service, and would fill the vacancies left by the French soldiers who would garrison Algeria and Tunis. He contends, moreover, that an excellent feeling would thus be promoted between the Arabs and the French population, and that from every point of view the experiment is worth trying.

MESSRS. ROTHSCHILD AND BARING have already offered £1,000,000 of the capital of £2,200,000 required for the Bengal and North-Western Railway Company, a London correspondent, writing on Oct. 27, says, and the balance has been subscribed by friends privately. The scheme is being well taken up.

It is placed in the middle of the train, and is in communication with the other carriages. It is divided into two dining-rooms upholstered in morocco, with skyblue curtains, and Persian carpets, with a kitchen and pantry adjoining. All the accessories are of an elegance which is not inferior to the best restaurants of Paris. There are three meals a-day, and printed menus are distributed among the passengers. The wine-list is equal to that of the best hotels. The waiting is performed by servants wearing the livery and bearing monogram of the Compagnie des Wagons-lits, who are the contractors for the whole affair. In its route the train-passes over the Eastern of France, the Alsace-Lorraine, Badenese, Wurtemburg, Bavarian, and Austrian railways, but the transit from one system to another was arranged so as to avoid all delay. The mean speed of the train was about 60 kilometres an hour, over the Wurtemburg and Bavarian railways this speed was reduced to 40 kilometres, but on the French line between Paris and Epernay it is stated to have reached 120 kilometres per hour. The passengers included the directors of the principal French lines, and of the German and Austrian lines contributing to the enterprise, as well as the ubiquitous correspondent of the New York Herald, without whose presence no important undertaking could be successfully inaugurated. In addition to these there were 20 passengers, each paying 250 francs, everything included, and all, according to the correspondent, bound for the Orient. The journey was performed with the greatest comfort and without a hitch. The only mishap occurred on the territory of Baden, where a miscreant fired a shot at the train. The bullet entered the dining-car and broke a crystal, but as it was early morning no one was in the carriage.

As we stated the other day, the London papers received by the last mail reported a considerable improvement in Dr. Tait's condition, and it appeared to be thought that he was on a fair way to recover from the severe illness which has prostrated him for several months. Reuter, however, reports to-day that His Grace has had a relapse, which may prove very serious, we are afraid, in the Primate's necessarily very debilitated condition.

THE widow of Dr. Tanner, of fasting celebrity, was separated from her husband, and the cause of the divorce, if we are to trust the account that has found its way into some of the French papers, is not a little curious. The Doctor held, among other curious theories on the subject of diet, that a man's character was largely influenced by the nature of the food of which he partook. French beans, for instance, produced, he considered, an irascible tendency; carrots rendered people timid and sullen; turnips made them kind and amiable. To test his theories he put his wife on an exclusive regimen of French beans, with the result of exasperating that lady's temper very much after a week of it. The Doctor, proud of this confirmation of his theory, now proposed to correct the effects obtained by employing an equally exclusive dietary of turnips; but the lady, objecting to be made the subject of any futher scientific experiments, and perhaps entertaining doubts of the Doctor's sanity, applied for a divorce and obtained it.

THERE is a good deal of Truth in the following remarks, which appear in Mr. Labouchere's journal:—There is strong evidence that the shooting of our men during the late campaign was bad. This will continue to be the case until the training and the means of training our infantry in the use of their rifles have been immensely improved. The necessary alterations include more time, more cartridges, more encouragement, and extended ranges. I believe, also, that a greater share of responsibility for the shooting of their men should be thrown on the company officers. Of one thing I am certain, that a vast improvement is both possible and necessary, and that few questions can be more important to a State which, like ours, ever seeks to attain great military results with limited numbers. For us good shooting is not merely a desideratum, it is a necessity, and it will be an immense misfortune if the prompt success we have achieved in Egypt should render us less solicitous of realising all that is possible in this direction.

WE learn from the Critic that Mr. Oscar Wilde has discovered a new poet, whose work entitled "Rose Leaf and Apple Leaf" is thus introduced to the American public by the high-priest of æstheticism. "Some of these poems are as iridescent and as exquisite as a lovely fragment of Venetian glass; others, as delicate in perfect workmanship and as simple in natural motive as an etching by Whistler is, or one of those beautiful little Greek figures which, in the olive woods around Tanagra, men can still find, with the faint gilding and the fading crimson not yet fled from hair and lips and raiment; and many of them seem like one of Corot's twilights, just passing into music; for not merely in visible colour, but in sentiment also—which is the colour of poetry—may there be a kind of tone." It is clear that such an inquiry as Mr. Matthew Arnold once engaged in, when he "tried to see what painting is, what poetry," is quite out of date; for art has now reached a height at which all limits have disappeared. Old-world philosophers like Berkeley and Hume would have it that colour was perceived by the eyesight; but the theory of sense perceptions obviously needs rewriting in these times.

THE MOHORRUM.

THE Mahomedan festival called the Mohorrum, which has been celebrated by the community since the new moon was visible, comes to a close this evening after the ceremony of immersing the taboots and punjahs in the sea at Mody Bay has been performed. The Commissioner of Police has issued licenses for the construction of 177 taboots and 731 punjahs; in the year 1881 there were licenses issued for the construction of 177 taboots and 731 punjahs. The taboots and punjahs are distributed as follows in the several divisions of the city. In the A Division, which includes Colaba, Fort Esplanade, Crawford Market, and Boree-bunder, there are 5 taboots and 20 punjahs. In the B Division, which includes portion of Dhobie Talao, Wittulwady, Oomercarry, Mandavie, and all the native town to the east of the Bhendy Bazaar-road up to the Baboola Tank-road, there are 64 taboots and 168 punjahs. In the C Division, which includes portion of Dhobie Talao, Sonapore, Breach Candy, Funnewady, Candywady, Girgaum, and Khetwady, there are 54 taboots and 239 punjahs. In the D Division, which includes all Malabar and Cumbala Hill, Chowpatty, Tardeo, and Mahaluxmee, there are no taboots and no punjahs. In the E Division, which includes all Cammatteepoora, Nagpada, Byculla Flats, Parell, Sewree, Mazagon, and Byculla, there are 39 taboots and 307 punjahs. In the F Division, which includes Parell, Mahim, Dareya, Matoonga, Sion, and Dadur, there are 7 taboots and 9 punjahs. The taboots and punjahs will follow in a general procession commencing at noon from their several districts, and are all supposed to pass Bycullah and the Bhendy Bazaar and Kalbadevi roads, turning off to the left at the Bible Depository on to the Esplanade Cross-road towards the Crawford Markets; thence over the Carnac-bunder railway over-bridge, and on to Mody Bay, where the immersion ceremony will be performed, and the festival comes to a conclusion. The European police inspectors of each district will be mounted, and are strictly ordered to adhere to the above route of procession, so as to prevent any confusion or disturbance caused by the great crowd which generally follows up each procession. Other measures have also been adopted by the police authorities, as on some previous years, to prevent disturbances, such as the closing of all wholesale and retail liquor-shops, and shops for the sale of any other intoxicating drugs—opium, ganga, &c.—and the making each licensed taboot and punjah holder answerable for any irregularity or disorder in the procession that is caused by his co-religionists. It is supposed that the immersion ceremony of the taboots, &c., will all come to a conclusion by sunset this evening.

THE DRAINAGE OF BOMBAY.

DR. BLANEY delivered yesterday, at the Framjee Cowasjee Institute, the first of a series of lectures on the drainage scheme prepared for this city, before a large gathering, consisting, with a few exceptions, of natives. Among those present were Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Mr. Ollivant (Municipal Commissioner), Mr. J. R. Duxbury, the Hon'ble Rao Saheb V. N. Mandlik, Messrs. M. N. Banajee, Muncherjee C. Murzban, N. Spencer, H. W. Barrow, P. M. Mehta, N. R. Ranina, &c.

Rao Saheb Mandlik said that it being his wish that some light should be thrown upon the subject of drainage, he had, at the request of several friends, invited them to hear Dr. Blaney, whose utterances would, no doubt, be very valuable.

On the motion of Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, seconded by Mr. Pherozeshaw Mehta, Rao Saheb Mandlik was called to the chair.

Dr. Blaney said.—Gentlemen.—We might appropriately begin this lecture by offering you the following hygienic aphorism: The main object of a sewerage system is the improvement and the preservation of public health. That at least is the test by which it must be judged. And what is our new sewerage system? Considered jointly with the water-supply and regarding both sewerage and water-supply as together making up a circulatory system resembling in some measure the circulating blood system in mammals—with this important difference however, that the circulating liquid of our water-supply instead of being purged of the impurities incident to its domestic use, and rendered fit for being returned to the storage reservoir, must be discharged from the city as foul sewage—our sewerage system may be described as that portion of the circulatory system which receives the water-supply after being sullaged by domestic use, and carries it to the ocean to be there discharged. This circulatory system commencing from the Vehar and Tansa storage reservoirs by iron mains of 32 and 24 inches diameter respectively, divides and sub-divides within the city into smaller brances, which terminate by final distribution to the houses in minute ferrules of ½ inch equal to the wants of the houses to be supplied, where these ferrules are guarded by stop-cocks. The total daily delivery is about 15 million gallons, or about 19 gallons per head, to a population of 773,196 persons. Insanitary wrong is inflicted on the city by domestic use, this water-supply then becomes sewage, and is discharged from the houses into nani pipes, kitchen pipes, and closet pipes. These three sets of house-connections form the commencement of the sewerage system and are intended to receive all the liquid filth of the city, including the washings from the kitchens, and all the night-soil and urine. They are, in fact, the receivers of what in the tropics must be called highly fortified sewage. The house-connection pipes discharge their gatherings into connecting pipe sewers of larger size, and these, increasing in size up to 12 inches diameter, discharge into a masonry sewer ovoid in shape, with concrete sides and brick arching. These masonry sewers discharge into one main sewer which carries the whole of the sewage to the extremity of the system at Love-grove. Beautiful name for the spot! Arrived at Love-grove, the sewage reaches a very low level, on account of the gradients which have to be given to the whole system of pipes and sewers to enable the sewage to move with the requisite velocity; and here it has to be lifted by expensive pumping machinery, in order that it may flow into the sea by gravitation for a few hundred yards. This is our new sewerage system, considered merely as a part of the circulatory system. The difference between it and the water-supply system is great indeed. The water-supply gives that which is invaluable because it is necessary to life and conducive to health, while the sewerage system is intended to carry away that which is dangerous to life and conducive to disease. And yet the capital and working cost of these systems will be found to be equal, or nearly so. The cost of an additional water supply is as yet unknown, and so also is the capital cost of the new sewerage system, and the recurring cost of maintenance of that system. So huge is the experiment which is now going on in our midst that it is difficult to attempt to estimate the whole cost plus the working expenses. Nor can any one enlighten us. Contemplate, gentlemen, the great fact that an important element to be dealt with in a night-soil sewerage system is the whole of the night-soil and urine, and the problem naturally rises up before you how to send these destructive elements out of the city without danger, extreme danger, to public health, that is to say, how to prevent the destructive effects of sewer-gas, the greatest of devolizers, and the greatest disturber of the peace of mind of the sanitary engineer in this country? Gentlemen, if there were no such things as sewer-gas and disease germs in a sewerage system, we would not be here to-night discussing a night-soil sewerage system. But alas! these dangerous foes of humanity, and especially of poor humanity in a tropical climate, and all the more dangerous because they too often elude our senses, are to be brought under and unless we can succeed in killing them in the stage of incipiency, that is to say, of preventing their formation and dispersion through the city, they will assuredly kill us. It is women, and especially children, who are the chief victims of a faulty sewerage system. And, gentlemen, we are their guardians.

The object which has brought us together this evening, gentlemen, is to consider our new sewerage system in its two chief aspects, namely, its hygienic, or that which concerns our health, and its financial, or that which concerns the public purse. To these might be added a third: its social aspect, or that which concerns our household arrangements. You are all familiar, gentlemen, with the facts that a new sewerage system has been partially executed; that the main sewer has been constructed, that the tributory pipe sewers have been put in, that a pumping station has been erected, and that house-connections alone remain to be supplied in order to complete what is called the first portion of our sewerage system. You know, gentlemen, that you are to have a night-soil system of sewerage, that the halalcores are to be abolished, and that every householder is to be made responsible for working his own privy. When so great a sanitary reform is in progress, it is right that we should give precedence to the hygienic above all other considerations of the scheme, for the obvious reason that as it is int

CARLTON WHISKEY, FIVE YEARS' OLD

CARLTON WHISKEY.

THESE GRAND OLD SCOTCH WHISKIES are shipped only by RICHARD MATHEWS AND COMPANY, of London and Inverness, who are sole possessors of the Brand "CARLTON." They are distilled from the finest Highland Malt only, are in every respect equal to the best Cognac Brandy, and guaranteed to be entirely free from Fusil Oil or other noxious impurities.
The following Letter has been received from the Secretary of the "CARLTON" CLUB :—

CARLTON CLUB, Dec. 20, 1875.

Messrs. R. MATHEWS & COMPANY.

GENTLEMEN,—In reply to your inquiry as to whether the Whiskey you are supplying to this Club is approved by the Members, the best answer I can give is that the consumption of this Whiskey in the Club has GREATLY INCREASED since it has been supplied by your firm. There can be no doubt whatever about the Whiskey being MOST EXCELLENT. It is Old and Soft, and I may safely say that it is much approved by the Members.

Yours obediently,
W. GRIFFIN SUTTON, Secretary.

CAUTION.—It has come to the knowledge of the Shippers of the "CARLTON" WHISKIES, that the empty Bottles have been dishonestly refilled with the poisonous trash very often sold in India under the name of Whiskey, this is therefore to caution consumers to CAREFULLY EXAMINE the CORKS and CAPSULES to see they have not been tampered with ; also that the Corks, Capsules, and Labels are branded with their Trade Mark.

For Prices and Terms apply to CUTLER, PALMER & Co., Agents for India.

ZOEDONE—Or those suffering from the enervating effects peculiar to the Indian climate.
ZOEDONE—NORMAN KERR, M.D., F.L.S., under date August 8 1881, writes :—
"My good opinion of ZOEDONE as a social drink has been amply confirmed by further observation."
ZOEDONE—WILLIAM FOSTER, M.A. (Cantab), F.C.S., &c., Professor of Chemistry at the Middlesex Hospital, Sept. 1, 1881 :—
"Its properties are those of an agreeable effervescent tonic."
ZOEDONE—SYED MAHOMED NABI ULLAH, of Allahabad, N.W.P. writes on 1st December, 1881, as follows :—
"Accept my sincere thanks for your idea of introducing ZOEDONE in India. I fear I cannot praise it enough. You know that a vast population of Her Majesty's subjects in India are Mahomedans, whose religion prohibits the use of wine or any other intoxicating liquor. Under such circumstances ZOEDONE is a boon and blessing to them. I think it is a health restoring, strengthening and nourishing beverage. From my own experience and from what I have ascertained from Medical men, I can certify that it is strictly non-alcoholic, and the very drink that the Indians generally and the Mussulmans particularly are in need of."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE
THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anxiuis, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, to J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera and Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co. Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne ; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

SUPPLEMENT TO

The Bombay Gazette.

BOMBAY :—WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1882.

THE BOMBAY PROPRIETARY SCHOOL.

THE following statement of the origin, progress, and present condition of the Bombay Proprietary School has been submitted to the Education Commission :—

The Proprietary School was founded on 10th June, 1866, under the auspices of an influential Committee composed of the following gentlemen* :—Messrs. Juggonath Sunkershettt, Bomanjee Hormusjee Wadia, Framjee Nusserwanjee Patel, Pestonjee HormusjeeCamajee, and SorabjeeFramjee Cawasjee, to meet the want of an entirely independent school for sons of wealthy native gentlemen. With a view to place it on a permanent footing, a fund was raised of Rs. 5,000 in 100 shares of Rs. 50 each ; and the School commenced with 125 pubils, paying a fee of Rs. 5 per mensem each. To verify this statement I beg to quote the subjoined extracts from the Report on Public Instruction in the Bombay Presidency for 1859-60.

Says Mr. E. I. Howard :—A Proprietary English School has been established by the exertions of Mr. Coke and Mr. Cawasjee Shapurjee, the Gujarati Deputy Educational Inspector, in the Fort of Bombay, for the education of "young gentlemen." It seems likely that the school will be successful. * * * Government will doubtless put a high value on this first serious attempt to break through the pernicious circle of Indian ideas on the subject of eleemosynary education—ideas which tend to perpetuate the present severance between the educated and the wealthy classes, which has been lamented by Lord Ellenborough."

Says Mr. Coke :—"Fort Proprietary School—this name has been given to an institution organised and established by this department on a co-operative system entirely new to Bombay. It is the first instance of the opening of a school through the agency of the Educational Department, without any pecuniary aid from Government * * * I consider the establishment of this School the most important fact which I have been able to accomplish during my short tenure of office."

Says the Government Resolution:—The Governor in Council also regards with great satisfaction the establishment, by the exertions of Mr. Coke and Mr. Cawasjee, Shapurjee, of a Proprietary English School in the Fort of Bombay. His Exellency in Council will watch the progress of this Institution with great interest, and he trusts that it will contribute many students from the higher classes to the University of Bombay."

These extracts will serve to show that the Proprietary School was the first considerable experiment of a purely independent school on this side of India, and that it was constituted on an entirely novel principle—the principle of joint-stock concerns, by which none but shareholders had the privilege of nominating boys for admission.

Mr. C. A. Beyts, of Bishop's College, Calcutta, and the master of the Candidate class in the Elphinstone Institution, was selected for the post of Head-Master. During his Head Mastership the School passed one student at the Matriculation Examination of the Bombay University, which led the Chancellor, Sir Bartle Frere, to pay it the following compliment in his Convocation speech of 1863 :—

"The constitution of the Bombay Proprietary School presents many admirable features. It numbers among its students the sons of the richest and most respectable Parsi gentlemen. It is, I believe, self-supporting, and the prospect is worth, as it appears to me, very sound judgment, retain its entire management in their own hands. We might justly expect from such a school, if not the largest number, certainly the largest proportion of candidates for admission to the University, and of competitors for University honors ; and I trust that the young student who has now appeared amongst us will be the first of many sons of our Parsi worthies who will vindicate by their career at this University their aspiration to be considered as one of the most enlightened communities in British India."

Mr. Beyts resigned his office in 1863 and was succeeded by Mr. Frank Morrison. During his Head-Mastership two students martriculated, in the University. But soon after this symptoms of a decline in the popularity of the School began to make themselves manifest. Shareholders began throwing up their shares, chiefly in consequence of the collapse of the commercial and financial excitement which had been raging then. The number continued steadily to fall, and in June, 1866, reached the lowest ebb. The crippled condition of the finances of the school, consequent on this state off affairs, necessitated the closing of it. Still there was felt a general desire to save such a beneficial institution from sinking into oblivion. At the meeting of the Proprietary body, convened for the purpose of formally winding it up, I, then first assistant, offered to take it over and conduct is as an experimental measure. Accordingly, it was made over to me for a pecuniary consideration, in August, 1866, from which time it got a fresh lease of life.

When I took charge of the School the number on the Register was 60. To attract more pupils it was deemed advisable to reduced the fee charged which was felt a heavy strain on the reduce means of parents. Three rates of fee Rs. 7, 5, 3, regulated by the requirements of the learner, were substituted for that of Rs. 10, which had been charged all round. This reduction led to the infusion of a new and healthy element into the constitution of the School. The exclusiveness with which the School had been hedged round had operated as a barrier to its success ; and the admission of sons of middle class gentlemen, together with that of a few deserving free students, exerted a salutary effect on the energies of the rich boys. To the School was attached a vernacular class, as the nucleus of a vernacular department from which to reinforce the Upper and Lower school. These reforms produced the desired effect. The number at the end 1866 rose to 100, and at the close of each succeeding year, it stood as follows :—139, 190, 219, 255, 294, 315, 295, 290, 294, 322, 330, 350, 365, 370, 490, the last figure attained being due to the incorporation into the School of an elemetary vernacular school. These figures afforded some indication of the material progress the School has made in numerical strength and popular estimation.

The School has been all throughout situated in a central locality in the Fort, and has occupied a house with four storeys, airy, commodious, and furnished with separate class rooms. It was purchased by me two years ago for the use of the School at a cost Rs. 25,000.

The total number of boys admitted during these sixteen years is about 2,450, and the total number withdrawn is about 1,894, leaving about 556 as the number on the Register up to date. The same is distributed into 15 classes, and consists of 499 Parsis 50 Hindoos, and 7 Mahomedans. The average daily attendance is 84 per cent.

The School has always been equipped with a staff of teachers keeping pace with its development. At present it consists of, besides myself, sixteen subordinate teachers, graduates, undergraduates, and others.

The course of instruction pursued in the School is in effect the same as that which obtains in Government Anglo Vernacular and High Schools, with but this difference, that instead of the Departmental Series of elementary reading books, there is used an excellent Series of books known as the Royal Readers. In the upper school approved classical authors are read. Moral and religious instruction is also given to Parsi boys in the elementary classes.

The School has been fairly successful at the Matriculation Examination. The following table gives the number which has matriculated each year since it passed into my hands :—

1866	6	1874	10
1867	5	1875	19
1868	8	1876	10
1869	2	1877	4
1870	8	1878	14
1871	6	1879	9
1872	11	1880	17
1873	13	1881	7

The yearly average of students contributed to the University is over 9.

The young men are in many cases the representatives of the leading Parsi families in Bombay, including a grandson of the first Sir Jamshedjee Jeejeebhoy, Bart.

Of the 152 successful students, including the 3 who matriculated during the first five years of the School's existence, 3 are Barristers-at-Law ; 1 is a Master of Arts, Bachelor of laws, and Medalist ; 1 is a Master of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, and Solicitor of the High Court ; 9 are Bachelors of Arts ; 8 have passed the First Examination in Arts ; 4 have passed the Previous Examination ; 3 have entered the Covenanted Medical Service ; 1 has gained his Diploma in both London and Edinburgh ; 7 are Licentiates of Medicine ; 3 have passed the First Examination for the degree of L. M. ; 1 is a Licenciate of Civil Engineering ; 3 have passed the First Examination in Civil Engineering, and several of the remainder are pursuing their studies at the different colleges. 2 have carried off University prizes, and 3 have been awarded the Rao of Cutch Scholarships of the value of Rs. 20 and 15. One precocious lad who had been brought up at the School from the beginning but who could not be presend for Matriculation, according to the rules of the University, by reason of his young age, has passed the Civil Service Examination after going through a course of studies at St. Xavier's College, having, however, recently been a pupil the School, and subsequently, of St. Xavier's College, has got a Gilchrist Scholarship and proceeded to England. Two are studying for the Bar in England, one of whom is Secretary to the Northbrook Club, two are studying for the Army Medical Service, some have become editors of local newspapers, some have become teachers, some have joined their fathers in mercantile pursuits, and a great many have gone into employment in private capacities in public and private offices, though without matriculating.

These results to which the local Press, particularly the vernacular, has repeatedly borne testimony show the high standard quality of the work done by the School amidst many difficulties and drawbacks.

From the day of its foundation up to the present time the school has preserved its character of a purely self-supporting institution, as the subjoined extracts from the Reports on Public Instruction testify.

Major T. Waddington says :—"The Fort Proprietary School being a purely private School, carried on for profit, receives no aid from Government.

Mr. Chatfield says :—"The Bombay Proprietary School is independent of Government aid, being intended for the sons of Parsi merchants and other native gentlemen able to pay high fees for the instruction of their children." Mr. Chatfield in his Report for 1878-79 says :—"The Proprietary School has flourished for many years, and is supported by wealthy gentlemen who would not receive a Government grant." While on this subject, I would beg to observe that grants-in-aid, if allowed even to self-supporting private schools, would prove very serviceable to them. They would serve to develop and expand these schools up to the requirements of the communities among which they exist. In the education of Indian students, notoriously stereotyped, unpractical, and ready to ignore the outer world. There is ample room for the introduction of many arts and sciences which, in the present condition of the middle classes of the people, cannot be encouraged and fostered without State aid. Moral instruction and physical culture which have been for the most part neglected in our high schools, also badly need State countenance and support. Such support, liberally given under an altered and carefully devised system of rules for grants-in-aid, would alone prepare the way for the withdrawal of Government from the support of higher education, which measure, under existing circumstances would, in my humble opinion, be nothing short of a calamity. In conclusion, while apologising for the length of this communication, I beg to state that I should not have presumed to trespass on the valuable time of the Commission, but for the desirability, nay the necessity felt, of supplementing the representations made to the Commission, of the work done by private and voluntary agency in the cause of education in the Bombay Presidency. Appended hereto is a copy of the rules of the School.

* One has just been nominated a member of the Bombay Civil Service.

* Subsequently Sir Jamshedjee Jeejeebhoy, Bart., Mr. Dosabhoy Hormasjee Camajee, and Mr. Venaykroo Juggonath were added to the number.

BENGAL.

AN UNFORTUNATE PILOT BOAT.—One of the pilot brigs usually stationed at the Sandheads, the Coleroon, is now lying off the Government Dockyard, Kidderpore, repairing damages sustained during the cyclonish weather, which was prevalent on the 13th of October. The Coleroon was unusually unfortunate. First of all an inward bound passenger steamer collided with her, and carried away the brig's jib-boom ; the Coleroon also lost her bowsprit, and altogether came so badly out of her encounter with the steamship that she had to make her way up to Calcutta for repairs. On her way up the Hooghly she stranded, being partially unmanageable and was only refloated with some difficulty. She is now receiving a thorough overhauling, and will shortly return to the pilot station.—Pioneer.

THE SALEM RIOTS.—The appeals preferred by the Salem rioters against the conviction and sentence of Mr. Wigram, will be heard to-day (Nov. 20) before the Chief Justice and Justices Innes, and Kindersley. Mr. Shephard will appear in support of the conviction, and Mr. Spring Branson and Mr. Willie Grant for the appellants.

N.-W. PROVINCES, PUNJAB, AND OUDH.

THE SIMLA HOSPITAL.—His Highness the Maharana of Dholpur has telegraphed a subscription of Rs. 1,000 to the Ripon Hospital at Simla. Colonel Denehey simultaneously subscribed Rs. 100.

MAJOR FLORENCE FILOSE.—Major Florence Filose Naib Dewan in the Gwalior Durbar, and A.-D.-C. to His Highness the Maharajah Sindhia, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., is about to be invested with the order of St. Sylvestre, which His Holiness Pope Leo XIII has sent him, for his fidelity to the Church of Rome, his charity and benevolence towards his destitute and less fortunate fellow-creatures, and for all those genial qualities which make man a true Christian and a friend to humanity. Major Filose is a Scion of the established family to which the Maharajahs of Gwalior owe their most loyal and staunch "Sirdars," and to which the present Maharaj owes his most faithful and devoted officers.—Pioneer.

THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.—One of the items of the programme to be observed at the Inaugural Convocation of the Punjab University is significant, and furnishes an example to all similar institutions of an easy method of "raising the wind." "The Vice-Chancellor will next present to His Excellency the Patron those gentlemen who have, since the date of the last Convocation of the Punjab University College, given important donations to University," Mark the word "important." A presentation to a Viceroy in public convocation is not to be purchased for any more ordinary donation. The sum must be "important," as befits the magnitude of the honor put up to auction. It would be interesting to learn how the process of selecting these gentlemen is carried out, and to whom falls the task of deciding on the validity of the many claims sure to be put forward. It is to be hoped that when the presentations in question are made, the Vice-Chancellor will also inform the audience of the exact amount of the "important donation" by which in each case the honor of presentation has been purchased. A university which can thus begin its career by selling the smiles of its Patron would not have far to descend if, at some future time, any proposal to make its degrees a marketable commodity should be deemed worthy of attention.—Pioneer.

GLASS AND WHITE-ANTS.

DR. SHORT writes to the Madras Mail :—With reference to Dr. Bidie's letter to Nature, as quoted in your issue of the 11th instant, allow me to state that the frosted appearance of glassware covered with the mud of the white-ant, as therein stated, is caused by an acid secreted by this insect, which I had named Termic Acid years ago, in an essay that I had the honour to submit to the St. Helena Government through the Madras Government in 1862 or 1863. Like a species of the ant that secretes Formic Acid, so the white-ant secretes Termic Acid, with which it softens and moulds the soil it excavates from the earth to build its mounds and nests. To the former it gives solidity when hardened by time ; to the nest itself it gives some elasticity and a corrugated leathery appearance when moist or recently excavated. Should the nest be freely handled, it causes some irritation and stains the fingers slightly. Owing to this acid property, the white-ant earth is in use as an embrocation, when applied to sprains or bruises, in native medicine. In native veterinary practice, it is in general use for such purposes, when boiled with an equal portion of cowdung and applied warm to the swollen part, under the name of Leap. In Kirby and Spence's Introduction to Entomology, page 312, it is said of the Termes lucifugus, a variety of the white-ant. "These insects seem to be furnished with an acid of a very penetrating odour, which is perhaps useful to them for softening the wood." This odour to a moderate extent exists in the fresh excavated nest of the common white-ant or Termitidæ.

THE NEW BRITISH COLONY IN NORTH BORNEO.

THE North China Herald publishes the following account from a correspondent at Elopura, North Borneo :—

The B. N. B. yacht Leia steamed in here on the 21st Sept., having His Excellency the Governor on board. On landing he was received with usual salute, which was returned by the Leila, and with a guard of honour of the Sikh and Somalee force. His Excellency stays on board pending alterations to Government House. The French barque Principe left this port on the morning of the 24th Sept. with a cargo of timber for Hongkong. There have been 10,046 bundles of rattans shipped away from here this month already ; of these the Hong Ann took 3,440 and the Julieta 6,597 in addition to the usual quantities of Trepang (Bêche de Mer), Gutta, Birdnest, &c., &c.

Of local items we have several. The health of the town continues very satisfactory, and progress is visible on all sides. New houses are springing up everywhere, but quickly as they are built they cannot afford accommodation for the rapidly and increasing population, every steamer, both from Labuan and Sooloo bringing numerous additions, so that a great many of the houses are inconveniently and what in other places probably would be unhealthily crowded. The Saw Mill is in full work, but it would be hard to say when there will be any planks for exportation, the local demand being so large. On several occasions lately there have been three vessels in harbour at one time and once or twice four. About a fortnight ago the English, French, Spanish and Sabah flags were all flying from different vessels in port on the same day.

On the Hong Ann's arriving some quarter of a mile off the jetty on the 14th September it was evident to the whole town that the Dorian season had commenced in Sooloo. One rush was made at the vessel, and the whole of that delectable but highly scented fruit was bought up at prices varying from 10 to 20 cents each. When it is remembered that a quantity of the purchasers were men in receipt of but 30 cents a day each as labourers, it will convey some idea of what estimation this fruit is held in by those of Malay race. By the next day not another one was to be had.

On the morning of the 14th September the little Vigilant steamed away from the jetty with a large party on board, amongst whom were the Resident, Captain Conner, Mr. Collinson, Mr. de Lissa, Mr. Sachse, Mr. Duberly and others. The northern end of Pulo Buy, unsurveyed, was passed very cautiously, and soon afterwards the Sapa Guya river was entered, three fathoms being the least water on the bar, low tide. The river winds tortuously through a fringe of nepa and mangrove some two miles deep but after this true forest is reached, and in a short time more the steamer was anchored and several of the party betook themselves to a canal, an eligible site on a sloping hillside having been chosen amidst acclamations. A bottle of Champagne was smashed against a tree, and the new town proclaimed to be Denton. After this, three cheers were given with a hearty good-will ; Mr. de Lissa threatened to burst into a speech, but had the thread of his eloquence cut short by a leech which attacked him unawares in a tender place.

At Denton there is just exactly one tree felled at present. All the rest is high primeval forest without the slightest trace of human-kind and the only track near it a broad and newly-used elephant-path. On dit, however, that several thousands of acres are already applied for in this neighbourhood, which is expected to be the centre of the agricultural district. The nearest houses are at Elopura, 10 miles away, but this will very soon be altered. The first gang of wood-fellers has already been engaged, and as the guano will be shipped off from here, as well as the birdsnests from the rich Gormanton caves, a busy little town may soon be expected to spring up, which has our heartiest good wishes for its prosperity.

On the 9th Sept. Pangeran Samah de Gadong, head of the Booloodoopy tribe, surrendered to take his trial for the murder of Taha, son of Eruaum Gelavee, head of the Bajaw tribe. The Court was thickly crowded with spectators, the Bajaw party being on the right and the Booloodoopies on the left. Both sides had been disarmed on coming into Court. The jury was composed of two Sooloomen, two Chinese, two Malays, and an Arab, the Resident being Judge. Every precaution had been taken to prevent anything unpleasant happening. The centre of the Court was occupied by a large body of armed Sooloo, while fortmen were picketed all over the floor and amongst the spectators at six feet apart from one another, in addition to a reserve force being ready within call, but out of sight, with fixed bayonets. As was expected, there was no real evidence against the Pangeran except the dying man's own assertion that he had been poisoned, and after full enquiry he was acquitted ; his speech in his own defence was strikingly able, particularly considering that he had never been in a Court of Justice before—pointing out the want of evidence against him, the want of motive, the fact that he would absolutely be a loser by Taha's death, as the latter owed him a hundred dollars on account of a debt of his that he had paid, and the absence of ill-will between them, as he had felt towards Taha as thought towards his own son. He also pointed out various errors in what little evidence there was, and finally concluded by throwing himself upon the sagacity of the jury and the justice of the Court quite in the best Old Bailey style. A noticeable and gratifying feature about this affair is that the Pangeran should have come down the River Batangan on two days' journey, in order to take his trial, on no stronger request than a letter from the Resident.

EXECUTION OF THE COREAN REBELS.

THE following account of the execution of the Corean rebels has been placed at the disposal of the JapanHerald :—The execution having been fixed to take place at day break, the Japanese officers held themselves in readiness to proceed to the scene after 2 a.m., and waited in the Legation for the arrival of a Corean officer, who was to conduct them there. At dawn of day a mounted officer, arrived, and at 5 a.m. the two attaches of the Legation, a police inspector, and the officers of the Japanese troops set out for the place of execution, accompanied by a detachment of troops and the said officer. At 6 a.m. they arrived at the Bokwakan (government building) where the execution was to take place. The outside of the building was decorated with draperies. The Commander-in-Chief of the Corean army was stated inside on a seat in the centre, surrounded by a number of Corean officers in full dress, who were armed with bows and arrows. Outside there was a large number of Corean soldiers, with spears and banners. They were dressed in various colours ; blue and red, however, were most conspicuous. The hats of the Corean officers were something like the lingasa, formerly worn by the Japanese soldiers, being almost flat. The musical instruments consisted of large and small drums, trumpets, and gongs, with which they made a deafening noise. Next to the commander-in-chief was a general who conveyed his orders to the men. When he approached the commander to receive his orders, he knelt down. A short distance from the place there was a battalion of Corean soldiers drawn up. The detachment of Japanese troops was placed on each side of the execution ground. At first the Corean band played but ceased when a bell rung. Three guns were then fired and the band began play again. Three more guns were fired, and two standard bearers, waving yellow standards, bearing the image of a lion on them, then appeared in the centre of the ground and crossed their standards. Next came the executioner who bowed down to the ground and then lifted up his staff, upon which the standard bearers lowered their standards and quitted the place. The most imposing quiet prevailed, until it was disturbed by the appearance of the criminals. They were tied with ropes and carried in sedan chairs. The jailors then caught them by the hair of the head and dragged them before the commander-in-chief. When the time for the execution had arrived, one of them loudly cried that he did not participate in the outrage and that he knew nothing about it. Another burst into tears, saying he had a son at home and that he was much grieved to think how his son would grow up without paternal care. It was a most sorrowful scene. The executioners then placed two arrows on the heads of the criminals, and, after pouring a quantity of water over their faces scattered some white powder. This was the signal for cutting off their heads. The Executioners cut off the heads of the criminals after thirteen blows with blunt swords. The heads were then placed on a table and shown to the Commander-in-Chief. After that they were thrown into pits with their bodies. It was a most cruel and pitiful sight.

THE CARLYLE STATUE.

SHORTLY after the death of Carlyle, some of his friends commissioned Mr. Boehm to execute in bronze a replica of the statue he had modelled from the life some six years before. The statue had pleased Carlyle at the time ; and Mr. Ruskin said of it, "For this noble piece of portraiture, I cannot trust myself to express my personal gratitude, or to speak at all of the high and harmonious measure in which it seems to me to express the mind and features of my dear master." It represents Carlyle wrapped in a loose dressing-gown, seated in his arm chair, his legs crossed, and his long characteristic hands folded on his lap. It is erected in the little public garden on the Chelsea Embankment, at the end of Great Cheyne-row, where Carlyle had spent the last 40 years of his life. Yesterday afernoon, Oct. 26, it was unveiled by Professor Tyndall, who after a few preliminary observations, said that politically, Carlyle's aim was rather to elevate and ennoble public life generally than to enunciate special measures. His influence went far beyond the sphere of politics. No man of his day threw so much of resolution and moral elevation into the hearts and lives of the young. Of the claims of duty and dignity of work, never man spoke like Carlyle. He might be described as "dynamic," not "didactic"—a spiritual force, which warmed, moved, and invigorated, but refused to be clipped into precepts. The bias of his mind was towards the military virtues ; but though he bore about him the image and superscription of a great military commander, yet had he been a statesman, as he might well have been, he could, at the fit moment have joyfully taken up the ploughshare and pruning-hook of peaceful civic life. Touching ethics, Carlyle held, that out of pure unintelligence there never could have sprung intelligence ; and so at the heart of things he placed an intelligence—the energy which we call God. The misjudgments which had arisen since his death are evanescent. A bucket or two of water, whipped into a cloud, may obscure the Alpine peak ; but the cloud passes away, and the mountain, in its solid grandeur, remains ; and thus, when all temporary dust is laid, will stand out erect, and clear the massive figure of Carlyle. In conclusion, Professor Tyndall said :—It now becomes my duty to unveil and present to the British public, and the strangers within our gates who can appreciate greatness, the statue of a great man. Might I append to these brief remarks a wish that a companion memorial could be raised, on this Thames Embankment, to a man who loved our hero, and was by him beloved to the end? I refer to the loftiest, purest, and most penetrating spirit that ever shone in American Literature—to Ralph Waldo Emerson, the life-long friend of Thomas Carlyle. Lord Houghton proposed, and Mr. W. E. H. Lecky seconded, a vote of thanks to Professor Tyndall. Mr. Robert Browning proposed and Mr. George Howard, M.P., seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Boehm, R.A. Among those present were Dr. Martineau, Mr. Courtney, M.P., Mr. F. Harrison, Dowager Lady Stanley, Miss Swanwick, Mrs. Oliphant, and Mr. Moncure Conway.—The Times.

THE "BULL DOG'S HEAD" BRAND.
(BASS'S ALE AND GUINNESS'S STOUT.)

READ BROTHERS, of London, request purchasers of their Bottled Ale and Stout to ask for "THE DOG'S HEAD BRAND," because another and totally distinct Bottler uses the figure of a Bull Dog, and thus two bottlings of entirely different character may both be called "BULL DOG."

The original "Bull Dog" mark is the registered property of READ BROTHERS, and their bottling still often goes by that name, but the title of "DOG'S HEAD BRAND" is theirs exclusively and is the only one that is protected by the injunction of the Lords Justices of England.
